Skalnaté Pleso is home to one of the most important observatories in Slovakia and a small mountain lake. We'll follow a circular route around the lake before heading to Hrebienok.

On the way to Hrebienok, you'll visit some of the legendary mountain huts in the area with countless spectacular viewpoints. That includes Rainerova hut, the oldest hut in the Tatras, and the cascading waterfalls of Studený Potok (Cold Creek). In the late afternoon, we'll head back to our hotel.

Day 4: Explore UNESCO sites like Spišský Castle and the medieval town of Levoča, then cycle to Kežmarok.

We'll then take a 10-minute transfer to medieval Levoča, a UNESCO World Heritage Site with the world's highest wooden altar.

After a cultural morning and tasty lunch in medieval Levoča, it's time again for something more active – a bike ride to the ancient town of Kežmarok. This is a modest 9km ride with spectacular views of the Tatras.

There is a wide range of trips and walks on offer to suit all tastes, from easy ones to demanding treks.

For today, we've picked an easy hike to Popradske Pleso hut, with one of the biggest mountain lakes in the Tatras right next to it. Here we'll enjoy a lunch on the hut's terrace with views of the lake and surrounding peaks before returning to Strbske Pleso, followed by a tram back to Smokovec.

We'll learn about the most famous monk, Cyprian, the inventor of a hang-glider and author of the oldest pharmacy in Central Europe.

The Pieninsky national park is also home to Dunajec Gorge. At 23km, it's one of the longest gorges in Europe. A spectacular way to see it is from the water, so take to your rafts, grab an oar and head along the river surrounded by towering, forested peaks.
