From here you'll hike along a popular family trail, exploring mountain huts and cascading waterfalls on a scenic trek that has views over the villages and settlements below. En route we stop at Zamkovského hut where we'll enjoy our packed lunch before continuing to Cold creek waterfalls and Rainerova hut – the oldest hut in the Tatras. You'll take a tour of medieval Levoca, a UNESCO World Heritage Site with the highest wooden altar in the world, before cycling to the ancient town of Kezmarok with a superb view of the peaks of the High Tatras. Day 4: Ride a mountain tram to Strbske Pleso, Slovakia's highest village, then walk to Skok waterfall

This morning we start with a tram journey through the Tatras' most famous settlements to Strbske Pleso (1,347m), Slovakia's highest village and home to a beautiful glacial lake.

The village is one of the most popular destinations in Slovakia as it provides many kilometres of hiking routes and the chance to admire the lake itself. From here, we'll follow a trail to Skok waterfall. The hiking trail is waymarked and leads you along a road to the peace and tranquillity of the pine-forested Mlynicka Valley.

From here, a stony path squeezes you through hairpin turns to the foot of the waterfall, which drops 25m from the rocky ledge above. It's easy to see why these are one of the High Tatras' top ten attractions – the cascading waters are beautiful as they tumble down the mountain into the pools below.

With a chance to see rare Tatra chamois on rocky peaks around you, this is the perfect spot for our packed lunch. After a well-deserved break we'll hike back to Strbske Pleso and return back to Smokovec by the mountain tram.

We'll learn about the most famous monk, Cyprian, the inventor of hang-glider and author of the oldest pharmacy in Central Europe.

The Pieninsky national park is also home to Dunajec Gorge. At 23km it's one of the longest gorges in Europe. A spectacular way to see it is from the water, so take to your rafts, grab an oar and head along the river surrounded by towering, forested peaks.

After our rafting adventure it's time for lunch in traditional restaurant. Here we'll meet our driver, who will drive us to the next attraction – the romantic castle of Niedzica, which belongs to the biggest attraction of southern Poland. In the late afternoon we return back to the Tatras.
